For the past six years I have been connected with the development and latterly with the sale of Brendonwood, a development of country home sites close to Indianapolis. The work has been intensely interesting and Brendonwood itself has received very high praise from some of the leading landscape architects and city planning authorities of America. I feel, therefore, that I have been connected with a very high grade and worth while work. On October 7, 1916, I married Helen Heywood of Indianapolis, Vassar 1912. Two little girls, Constance and Adeline, manage to keep our house lively and to prevent my outlook on life from becoming jaded. We are hoping to build our own home this year if building costs, business conditions and a few other little things don t interfere.
