

An Appeal to the Republic of Letters, in Behalf of Injured Science, from the Opinions and Proceedings of Some Modern Authors of Elements of Geometry

By George Douglass

RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 28 pages. Dimensions: 9.7in. x 7.4in. x 0.1in. This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1810 edition. Excerpt: . . . given, as well as equal to the given figure. It therefore becomes necessary, that the given figure must not be greater than a figure described on half the line, as it must be similar to the defect. This is a new property, useful and entertaining; the Professors is only the 6th Prop. book 2d, brought forward in an aukward form, and here a mere nonentity, as it brings no information. Doctor Simson, in his notes upon these propositions, by way of illustration, adds some propositions of a more simple form; but so far from being intended to supersede the use of the 28th and 29th, expresses himself thus: These two problems, to the first of which the 27th is necessary, are the most general and useful of all the Elements, and are most frequently made use of by the ancient geometers in the solution...

READ ONLINE
[6.39 MB]

Reviews

Absolutely essential go through book. It can be rally fascinating through studying period of time. You wont truly feel monotony at at any time of your respective time (that's what catalogues are for concerning in the event you question me).

-- Roberto Leannon

This sort of publication is everything and made me seeking forward and much more. Better then never, though i am quite late in start reading this one. I am easily could possibly get a delight of reading through a created pdf.

-- Quinton Balistreri